Datasym Inc. Releases Comm2000 for Vista

Datasym has announced the release of the latest version of Comm2000 for Vista (v3.1), compatible with Datasym's Retail Product Line.

Comm2000 is Datasym's communication software that is used to retrieve sales and programming information from their POS terminals and provides various reporting tools. The company wanted to ensure they provided options for their customers, so the Comm2000 for Vista software was developed to be compatible with Windows 2000, XP, Vista and the upcoming Windows 7. This software is backwards compatible with existing installations of Datasym terminals including the XR650, Merlin and SC6000.

Rick Sterne, President of Datasym stated "This is an exciting time for Datasym. We are continuously developing new product for the marketplace and the release of this version of Comm2000 for Vista is the first of many exciting upcoming announcements"
